Runaway Truck Kills Three

The twisted remains of a milk truck lie against the retaining wall it crashed into after careening down a street in Liberty and slamming into 13 cars, killing three persons. Police say the crash accident was caused by the fact that the air line in the truck's brake system had broken. (NEA Telephoto)

Bronxville Man Shot in Shoulder

Hunting for Woodchucks at Atwood; Is Called Accidental

Randolph Olsen, 43, of Bronxville, was accidentally shot in the shoulder by his companion as they were hunting woodchucks Sunday evening on the Dr. William Bush farm at Atwood, town of Marletown, state police reported.

The bullet from a .22 calibre rifle pierced Olsen's body about six inches from the shoulder, troopers said. He was taken to the Benedictine Hospital and was in good condition there today, according to the report.

Olsen's companion was Edward Rasmussen, 35, of Mt. Vernon, state police said. The two men were seated on the ground, about three feet apart, when they sighted a woodchuck to their left, and both fired simultaneously, the bullet from Rasmussen's gun striking Olsen, state police said. The incident occurred about 7:15 o'clock.

Truck, Money Missing at Accord

State and Kingston police were alerted this morning after a pickup truck was reported stolen from Accord by a young employee believed also to have taken an undetermined amount of money, possibly as much as $4,000.

The truck and money was taken from Chait's Bungalow Colony at Accord about 9 a. m. today, according to a report made to state police of the Ellenville station.

A report telephoned to the troopers said that approximately $4,000 in checks and cash was missing, but the amount was officially listed as undetermined pending further investigation. How much of the missing amount was in cash was not revealed.

Troopers of the Ellenville station immediately set out road blocks, and patrols from other stations in the area were alerted. Kingston police were also notified.

Liberty Will Seek Highway Bypass, Mayor Indicates

Trustees to Meet Tonight to Discuss Methods of Getting State Assistance

Mayor Hyman Heller says Liberty officials will press anew for a new highway bypass here as the result of an accident in which three persons were killed and 10 injured Saturday, the Associated Press reports.

Heller called a meeting of the board of trustees for tonight, to discuss plans for winning state aid on a three-year-old plan to divert heavy truck traffic away from this populous summer resort center. The planned bypass would cost 6½ million dollars.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of this city, told The Freeman today, "I am terribly shocked that such a thing happened. I shall do all in my power to assist the Liberty officials."

As the truck hurtled into this resort community, crowded with afternoon shoppers, it crashed 12 parked and moving cars—one after another—snapped off a utility pole, mounted a sidewalk and came to rest against a retaining wall.

Three Are Identified

Killed were Mrs. Selma Kleinman, 45, a pedestrian of Liberty, who was pinned against a stone wall when the truck slammed a jeep against her; Robert Wolf, 21, of the Bronx, and Martin Diamond, 26, of Brooklyn, passengers in the first car rammed by the truck.

Meanwhile two of the accident victims remained on the critical list at Maimonides Hospital. (Continued on Page 15, Col. 4)

Police Car Radar Gains In State's Speed Drive

Albany, July 26 (AP)—Radar, a war veteran with a fine service record, is gradually gaining popularity in New York state in a civilian pursuit—the drive to catch up with speeding motorists.

Since World War 2, 12 localities in the state have adopted radar as a method of nabbing speeders. Buffalo and Rochester are the only upstate communities in the list, the others being in Westchester and Nassau counties.

Most have used radar about two years, and officials of these communities are encouraged by the results. The consensus is that drivers slow down on highways checked by radar—with corresponding drop in accidents.

Granger Quits Consultant Post on Racial Problems

Sag Harbor, July 26 (AP)—Lester Granger has resigned as a special consultant to the navy on racial problems because, he says, he felt navy leaders lacked "a sufficient sense of urgency" regarding race issues.

Granger said last night his resignation, submitted July 19, was "good natured" and both he and the National Urban League, of which he is executive director, would remain "ready to assist" the navy.

Granger, a negro, said the navy has taken some important steps in removing racial segregation. But in recent months, he added, "these steps were not at a sufficient pace or extent to justify the services of a special consultant."

Since he took the consultant post last September, Granger said at his summer home, he had put in only three days' work and had not been consulted at all since last winter.

He said he resigned because he did not want to feel "in any way held responsible for practical

Red Forces Stop Below Truce Line

Attack Accompanies Pledge to 'Liberate' Portion of Viet Nam; Began Saturday

Saigon, Indochina, July 26 (AP)—Vietminh forces stabbed southward in Viet Nam over the weekend, striking far below the dividing line set in the imminent cease-fire. The new attack, 180 miles northeast of Saigon, came as Peiping radio trumpeted a pledge by Red Vietnam chief Ho Chi Minh to "liberate" the lower half of the partitioned Indochina state.

In north Viet Nam, which formally passes into Vietminh hands tomorrow under the Geneva agreement, the French got ready to evacuate up to one million civilians and fighting men. The giant operation is set to begin Wednesday.

Bridges Sabotaged

A French high command spokesman said the rebel attack in the south began Saturday. He said the Vietminh struck at Nha Trang, on the China sea coast. Rebel commandos sabotaged several bridges in Nha Trang after Vietminh artillery had bombarded the coastal town's defenses.

The rebels also attacked French and Vietnamese positions at Qui Nhon, 100 miles north of Nha Trang, and struck at Tuy Hoa, midway between the two towns.

Other Vietminh forces brought pressure on Cheo Reo, a post 60 miles southwest of Qui Nhon on central Viet Nam's plateau. Gen. Paul Ely, French commander in chief in Indochina, warned the rebels to stop or face mass air retaliation.

The step-up of fighting in the south, just as the cease-fire is about to go into effect, appeared based on a Vietminh desire to show their strength to communities which will not be under their control.

Peiping radio has broadcast statements by both Ho and Vietminh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap to the effect that south Viet Nam was only temporarily in French hands, regardless of the cease-fire.

Are Inseparable Parts

Ho was quoted as saying "the demarcation line does not mean the political and territorial border line. North, central and south Viet Nam are inseparable parts of our nation's territory. We assure the people of each region that they will be liberated."

But the immediate problem facing the French was the evacuation of troops and civilians from north Viet Nam.

Jacques Compain, French civilian director general in north Viet Nam, said he hoped to fly out 300 French civilians and 500 Vietnamese on Wednesday. By mid-August, he expects the operation to hit high gear with another 1,000 flying out daily and another 4,000 a day going by ship from Haiphong port, 65 miles east of Hanoi, to Saigon, 700 miles southward.

Evacuation of the Hanoi area must be completed within 80 days after the July 27 cease-fire. (Continued on Page 15, Col. 4)

French Nurse Arrives in U. S.

New York, July 26 (AP)—Lt. Genevieve De Galard-Ter-raube, heroine of Dien Bien Phu, told a welcoming crowd at Idlewild airport today that "I do not deserve this honor, for I have only done my duty."

The 29-year-old nurse, acclaimed for her work among the wounded of the ill-fated Indochinese fortress, arrived by plane from Paris at 8:52 a. m. (EDT) as an official guest of the United States.

A reception committee and Jean Deladade, French consul general in New York, greeted her at the airport, and the consul general presented her with a large bouquet of roses.

Senate Says 'No Cloture' On Atom Bill

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The Senate today beat down a determined effort by Republican leaders to cut short debate on the atomic energy bill.

On a roll call vote, a motion by GOP Leader Knowland (Calif.) to invoke cloture—restricting all future debate to one hour for each senator—received the support of 44 senators while 42 opposed. It would have required a two-thirds vote of the full Senate, or 64 "ayes," to put the motion over.

In advance of the vote, Knowland told the Senate he had "no illusions" about a chance to win, and warned of "even more drastic" steps possible if he doesn't.

"If there was ever a time when cloture was in order," he said, "in my judgment this is the time."

No Hint of Plans

He gave no hint as to what the "drastic" steps might be. Before the Senate met, Knowland had conferred at the White House with President Eisenhower and told reporters afterward that "there will be no surrender" in the efforts to pass the administration bill.

He said the President and Republican congressional leaders agreed that the delays in the Senate should not be permitted to block the administration's legislative program "even if it requires that Congress continue in session several additional weeks."

There was a suggestion from Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, in the brief debate before the vote on cloture that something in the way of a shortening of the debate might be worked out.

Asks Reasonable Talks

Johnson announced that he would not vote for cloture but he asked that his Democratic colleagues confine themselves to "reasonable discussion" on four or five "basic issues" and let the matter come to a vote.

Johnson asked Sen. Anderson (D-N.M.), one of the leaders of the group beating the bill, whether he thought such an arrangement might be acceptable to a majority of Democrats.

Anderson replied that if Johnson "came forward with a program of that kind, we wouldn't have near the trouble we have had."

Johnson said he hoped he could get an agreement on such a plan and Anderson came back that "I'd be happy to join him in such an endeavor."

Florida Senator for Cloture

Sen. Holland (D-Fla.) told the Senate he was voting for the cloture petition because that mechanism "should be used to break futile filibusters."

He said the debate had "long since exceeded a reasonable time."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said that if a filibuster was in progress it was because "the majority leader has driven us into all-night sessions."

Sen. Hill (D-Ala.) argued that the long sessions had prohibited reasonable discussion of actual issues in the debate by tiring out senators.

"There has been no real deliberation," he said.

The bill has been before the Senate for 10 days. Knowland kept the Senate in session for 86 hours, with a single 25-minute recess, last week.

Knowland indicated to reporters that he might make a second try later for cloture.

He said some senators have told him they would not vote for a cloture today, but might change their minds "because of the extreme obstructionism" if the marathon debate continues.

He said he was determined "we are going to continue in session day and night until we vote on the amendments and the bill" and that President Eisenhower has approved that course.

Local Rainfall Aids Some Crops

State Says Drouth Is at Danger Stage in Certain Areas

Ulster county's shallow-rooted crops have been given some temporary relief from the dry weather and the corn crop has been brought out of the "wilting" stage, but the relief is considered only temporary, unless a great deal more rain falls soon.

The serious drouth condition which put the sweet corn crop on the brink of failure, has been temporarily halted, W. H. Palmer, Ulster County Farm Bureau Agent, reported today but he pointed out that unless there is considerable more rain shortly the crop will once again go back to the danger stage.

Shallow-rooted crops, lawns and gardens have been benefited by the recent rains but it was pointed out that the moisture did not penetrate the soil much beyond two inches. This gave deep-rooted crops little relief and a few days of hot dry weather will again place them in danger.

At Dangerous Stage

Albany, July 26 (AP)—A drouth that has reached what one state agency calls "the dangerous stage" is clamping a withering grip on New York state farm and forest lands.

An Associated Press survey yesterday showed that parched fields in most farm areas threatened serious damage to some crops unless relieved soon by a real soaking downpour.

And a spokesman for the State Conservation Department said the lack of rain posed a threat of forest fires in the state's vast

Red Planes Are Downed

Washington, July 26 (AP)—The State Department reported today two U. S. carrier planes shot down two Chinese Communist planes which attacked them while the Americans were searching for survivors of a British airliner.

A department announcement said there were no casualties on the American side, and emphasized that the Red planes made their attack "over the high seas."

It said: "The United States plans to protest most vigorously against this further evidence of Chinese Communist brutality and their belligerent interference with a humanitarian rescue operation being conducted over the high seas."

The American fighters were from the two United States aircraft carriers ordered into the area Saturday to "protect further rescue and search operations" launched after Chinese Communist fighters shot down a British Cathay Pacific airliner on a flight from Bangkok to Hong Kong.

The Communist radio announced today that the Peiping government was apologizing to Britain for the attack on the airliner. It said the Red pilots thought the plane was Chinese Nationalist.

Ten persons, including three Americans, apparently lost their lives after the airliner crashed into the sea. Latest reports indicate eight survived.

Following is the text of the State Department announcement, made in the name of Sec-

To Review Payment of Indemnity

Patrol Planes Thought Transport Nationalist—Aim Seems to Be to Get in UN

Tokyo, July 26 (AP)—Communist China apologized to Britain today for shooting down a British airliner over the South China Sea Friday with an apparent loss of 10 lives, including three Americans. There were eight survivors.

A Peiping radio broadcast heard here said Red patrol planes thought the transport was Chinese Nationalist. It expressed a willingness to consider paying damages.

The apology—virtually unprecedented since the Red regime took over the Chinese mainland—was in a note to British Charge d'Affaires Humphrey Trevelyan from Chang Han-fun, Red Chinese vice minister for foreign affairs.

Follows Current Line

The conciliatory note—a reply to a British protest—seemed to tie in with Peiping's current line of propaganda aimed at getting a United Nations seat at the expense of the Nationalists, by wooing Britain and France and denouncing the United States.

Later in the same broadcast, the Red radio told of recently shooting down a "U. S.-made Kuomintang (Nationalist) plane over Chekiang province."

"If the U. S. imperialists order the Chiang brigades to send any more planes in provocative action against us we will shoot them down as we have done before," it added.

Text of the note, broadcast by Peiping, said shooting down the Cathay Pacific airlines Sky-master over Hainan island was "entirely accidental" and an "unfortunate incident."

"They shot us down with the intention of killing us," Capt. Philip Blown, pilot of the airliner, told newsmen in Hong Kong. Britain protested the shooting Saturday night and U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles charged the airliner was "deliberately shot down." Two American aircraft carriers—the Hornet and the Philippine Sea—were ordered to the scene to protect the continuing search for the nine missing persons.

Show of Strength

The Dulles protest plus the movement of the carriers into Chinese waters was regarded in Washington "as a show of strength to impress upon the Reds the gravity of the situation."

The Peiping broadcast said

Bridge Bids Are Opened

Harris Structural Steel of New York on a bid of $9,496,431.80 was low bidder this afternoon for construction of the superstructure of the Kingston-Rhinebeck bridge.

The other bidders, all of New York were Bethlehem Steel $9,630,112.60 and American Bridge $9,687,723.90.

State's Estimate

The state estimated cost of the project is $9,100,000. A contract for the substructure was awarded in the spring to Merritt-Chapman, Scott, of New York on a bid of $4,495,477, which was more than $1,000,000 under the state's estimated cost.

Preliminary work is in progress for the building of the land and water piers and work is nearing completion on the east and west approaches to the span.

The total estimated cost of the bridge is about $17,000,000. Madigan and Hyland, traffic engineers, of New York recently completed a traffic count and survey to determine the volume of traffic over the three existing bridges over the Hudson under control of the bridge authority and to set potentials for travel over the Kingston-Rhinebeck and Newburgh-Beacon spans, which are to be built.

Stevenson Labels

It Appeasement

Anchorage, Alaska, July 26 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, breaking a five-day silence on the Indochina peace settlement signed in Geneva last week, yesterday charged that right wing Republicans have "successfully identified negotiation with appeasement."

In his first and only major speech on an Alaska vacation, the unsuccessful Democratic standard bearer in the 1952 presidential campaign said of the Indochina settlement:

"This is the sorry sequel of all the foolish, boastful Republican talk about liberation of the enslaved nations, about unleashing Chiang Kai-shek, seizing the initiative, a new look on foreign policy, no more little wars as in Korea, and, finally, that threatening talk by the secretary of state and the vice president about massive atomic retaliation which scared our allies half to death, if not our enemies."

"All these bold words and ringing slogans of the past two years sound a little hollow now. The 'new look' collapsed at the first test. The administration was not prepared to fight, nor could it negotiate, because the right wing Republicans have successfully identified negotiation with appeasement."

"Unable to fight, unable to negotiate, unable even to speak with a coherent tongue, U. S. foreign policy defaulted and France salvaged what she could out of the endless, weary war in Indochina."

Washington, July 26 (AP)—

American planes searching for survivors of a Communist-downed British airliner came under fire from Red Chinese planes and a Communist gunboat last night and shot down two of the attacking planes. There were no American casualties.

The State Department announced the incident today and denounced "Chinese Communist brutality" in attempting to interfere with the rescue efforts.

The Pentagon then gave some details of the affair and disclosed, in the words of Adm. Felix Stump, that U. S. fliers are under instructions to be "quick on the trigger" if a hostile pass is made at them.

Fire Is Quenched

A blaze, which firemen said was started by children playing with matches at the rear of 10 Post street was quenched by firemen Sunday night. Men and equipment from the Central and Cornell stations responded. The fire was in rubbish between a shed and garage and was quenched by a hydrant stream. A call at 12:56 p. m., Sunday resulted of a fire scare at 9 Locust avenue when smoke backed up from a chimney into the house.

the homes, it is believed that the total number of visitors will be in excess of that number.

Traffic through the village was handled during the event by Deputy Sheriffs Thomas Mayone and Arthur B. Smith.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 26 (AP)—Aircraft jumped ahead today in the stock market on the heels of news of the fight between American and Chinese warplanes.

The immediate advance in the aircrafts had no reflection in the remainder of the market which in the early afternoon sagged rather quietly.

Steels were under some selling pressure following their buoyancy last week on merger rumors.

Gains, which were mostly in the aircrafts, went to around 2 points. Losses, shown mainly in steels and oils, extended to between 1 and 2 points.

The trading pace was moderate at a rate well under Friday's 2,520,000 shares traded when the market was advancing.

Stories Differ, Prosecutor Says

Los Angeles, July 26 (AP)—There are inconsistencies between statements of a pretty medical technician here and a statement by Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, Cleveland osteopath whose wife was bludgeoned to death weeks ago in the Ohio city, an investigator reported last night.

"Suffice it to say," said Thomas Parrino, assistant prosecutor of Cuyahoga (Cleveland) county, "that some of the things which she (Miss Susan Hayes, 23) told us are not consistent with testimony given by Dr. Sheppard regarding their association."

Changes Picture

"What she told us changes the picture in some respects," Parrino declared. "These changes are rather important, and I am sending the information to the Cleveland police."

The official did not elaborate. Parrino and Homicide Det. Robert F. Schottke came here from Cleveland to talk with persons who had seen Dr. Sheppard during his trip here last March.

Dr. Sheppard and Miss Hayes both have said that during that time he had replaced a watch she had lost. And she told local Dist. Atty. E. Ernest Roll that the osteopath had taken her and another couple to a wedding of friends at San Diego.

Both Dr. Sheppard and Miss Hayes, who knew the osteopath and his wife when the medical technician lived in Cleveland, said their friendship was only casual.

President Thinks Rulers Stupid

Washington, July 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower says weapons can not produce real peace—that victory in the cold war can come only from a great moral crusade.

Declaring that the people of all nations want peace, that "it is only the governments that are stupid," the President said the masses must arm themselves with a moral "force that will win through to victory."

Standing beneath a cross, Eisenhower yesterday told the 12th World Christian Endeavor convention that while the United States must remain armed to protect its security, only moral force will give the world "prosperity and peace—prosperity beyond all the imaginings of the past."

He told the international Christian youth group, "it is only governments that are stupid, not the masses of people. Governments may seek for power, for the right to dominate, to extend their authority over others. Free people do not seek that."

"In the great conflict that is going on in the world today," he said, "one side upholds the freedom and dignity of man, and therefore recognizes the spiritual character. The other...denies all the kinds of values that our young people support."

The President spoke after returning from an overnight stay at Camp David, his Maryland mountain retreat.

The Fly Swatter

By FRANK TRIPP

he woman I live with, better known to you as Fanny, turns to be a dangerous person—all on account of her dexterity with swatter.

the safest way to approach within arm's reach lately with an electric fan in one hand and a boiler cover in the other. The one to blow away her prey, the other to ward off her attack should she mistake a freckle for a fly.

Oh, yes, we have screens, acres of 'em, and every kind of exterminator; the kind you put in the kind you burn. But we had some other things and this fly-time. We were deep in house painters and it's even money which can in more flies.

NEEDED COURSE in public schools is how to talk through screen, something no kid is able to do. They can't so much as say "good morning" unless they are planted in a doorway in the screen wide open. And it seems like house painters take down the screens when I give 'em the contract and I put 'em back till your check has cleared the bank. What with painters, kids and departing callers who always think of a new ten-minute pie on their way out, I've figured that, thought totally oned in screen, we really are about 50 per cent protected. I'm for jailing house painters rough fly-time and building up-in cat-holes via the cellar kids. What to do about longed doorway women, short of arsenic cocktails, I leave to Rube Goldberg.

NO MATTER how come or why, there's one thing for certain; nothing is more lethal than a woman with a fly swatter. Her weapon is the sole survivor of days when wire screen was a luxury, when cloth mosquito bar was tacked over windows, and typhoid and malaria flourished. The persuaders of that time were the smudge pot and flour sacks slashed into inch-wide strips, then fastened to a discarded broom handle; a cat-o-nine-tails, with some 20 tails. When the flies became unbearable a door was opened and the attack started across the room. The persuader was swung at random and the flies driven out; only to be right back, for the only fatal weapons were the fly swatter and flypaper.

SWEET CLOVER hung in bunches from ceilings as a roosting place. A steady hand could shake snoozing flies outdoors after dark. They'd be back for breakfast.

Flypaper sold like hot cakes. "Tanglefoot" was the popular brand, and sure did tangle. In my day I sat down on at least a dozen sheets of it and once got a sheet in my hair.

My dog, "Tip" rushed up playfully and swished his tail in a fresh sheet of Tanglefoot, then waved it across my face and forehead. Kerosene wouldn't lose it but Pop knew how. "Tip" didn't need a haircut much as I did. Anyway we both got one, right down to the hide.

AS YOU WIELD your fancy plastic swatter, pay homage to its ancestor. Your grandmother didn't have one, but she invented it: a folded newspaper, which still works swell.

Just one more reason why radio can never replace the newspaper. That and pantry shelves—and fireplace kindling.

Neither can you wrap fish in a radio commercial. Fish smell bad enough on their own. Besides, how would you ever house-break a cat?

Oh, I tell you, brother, the good old newspaper is here to stay. (Copyright, 1954, General Features Corporation)

South's jump to four spades in today's hand was an attempt to shut the opponents out. North had already passed, and South had very little defense against the opponents. (As it happened, North had two aces, and East-West could not have made a game.)

South should have been defeated, but he actually succeeded in making four spades when East went off in the wrong direction. West opened the queen of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer returned a diamond from the dummy, and East wisely hopped up at once with the ace.

At this point the correct line of defense should have been very clear. South probably intended to ruff diamonds in the dummy, and it would be to East's advantage to get rid of dummy's trumps by leading the ace of spades and next a low spade. South would then succeed in making five trump tricks, two aces, and two diamond tricks at most.

For some obscure reason, East thought the best defense consisted in leading hearts persistently to put West in an overruffing position. The trouble with this idea was that West had no high trump with which to overruff, and this fact should have been clear from the bidding. When East took the ace of diamonds, he promptly led the king of hearts. South ruffed, cashed the king of diamonds, and ruffed a small diamond in the dummy.

There was now no way to defeat the contract. Even if East overruffed and returned a low trump, declarer could draw the trumps and give up a diamond, losing only two diamond tricks and one overruff.

Actually, East overruffed with the ace of spades and led another diamond in dummy, and succeeded in making his contract with an overtrick instead of being set one trick.

The moral is quite clear. It usually pays to remove dummy's trumps when it seems likely that declarer plans to ruff losing cards with dummy's trumps.

If you decide against this obvious defense you must be very sure that your own plan will work better.

Do You Remember
By SOPHIE MILLER

It may interest the readers of this column to know how they handled "side walk superintendents" back in 1910 in Kingston. According to The Kingston Freeman and Journal of Tuesday, May 31, 1910, the painting of the steeple of the First Dutch Church in the up-town business section made headlines. J. Hardenburgh Roosa, who had the contract to paint the steeple, found it necessary to place a large sign in the church yard to answer all the foolish questions so that passersby would not bother the painters. I quote from the sign: "To all interested: The man on the steeple is a real live man. He eats three meals a day. No he has no wings. He is not afraid of the rope breaking. The steeple is 212 feet high. He will be on exhibition about two weeks."

Many other questions were asked, as to how the steeple-jacks got up to the steeple, so The Freeman of above date thought it wise to explain it to the reading public so that the painters would have more time to paint instead of answering questions. The painters, who were within hearing distance of the "side-walk superintendents," did not seem to be able to lay down a stroke of paint without being questioned about the steeple-jack painters. Alonzo Ennist, sexton of the church explained that the interior of the steeple is made up of long beams, fastened together and gradually and gently tapering toward the apex. He said: "There are cross-beams galore in order to give strength and steadiness to the steeple, and by means of these cross-beams and braces the steeple-jacks make their way from the helter to a point near the top, where they punched a hole through the shingles covering the sides of the steeple. Through this hole they dropped a rope to the roof of the church, and at the end of the rope they attached a large tackle, which was hauled to the height of the hole."

According to newspaper item people lined Wall and Fair streets to watch these men climb all over the steeple. This one man climbed to the very point, so it seemed to the crowd. He reached as far above his head as possible and drove a hook into the steeple. Then he climbed up, clutching the sides of the steeple, until he could stand on the tackle and slip a belt that passed around his waist over the hook. Anyway he kept putting in hooks further up and so was able to be safely at work giving two coats of paint to the steeple. It was said the gilt top was not to be regilded, they don't say why.

Further down the item, the "side-walk superintendents" were called "steeple-gazers" perhaps many readers remember the incident and wonder why a very light coat was put on first and then a darker one which matched the rest of the building. This was to prove to the constabulary and the church members, and also to the "steeple-gazers" that the steeple was really painted and no spots left undone with either color. Old-timers could think of everything. No doubt for those two weeks many prominent businessmen mailed their own letters in the post office uptown instead of sending their help so they could see how the work is progressing. Perhaps some of the readers have good photographs of the paint job. There is always someone who thinks of taking good pictures of such an event and dates it. Who remembers the above event?

GOLD

I am frequently asked about the gold stocks. This short article will briefly answer many of my readers and those who have an interest in the matter.

I am not enthusiastic about the gold shares. The price of gold has not been changed since 1934—for 20 years our government's price has been $35 an ounce. In the meantime the gold producing companies have seen their labor costs and other expenses more than double.

If I were an officer of a gold-mining company, I certainly would put pressure on political authorities to raise the price. From my standpoint, such companies are economically entitled to the raise.

Gold prices have become a political matter. Our own government is unwilling to increase the price primarily because it would add to our inflation and set in motion machinery that would probably lift prices which, in turn, would increase wages and costs.

There is no early prospect that gold prices will be advanced. Hence, the mining companies must struggle with their wage and cost problems as best they can.

But, as everybody knows, politics is politics. And the price of gold is subject to political change without notice. I would not want to venture a guess that during the next 10 years—1954-1964—that gold prices will not be changed.

Many gold producing countries are putting terrific pressure on Uncle Sam to up the price of the precious metal. And who knows what may eventually happen?

I am in complete agreement with investors with sizeable portfolios who, looking into the future, believe that military and political events will sooner or later force the price of gold higher. However, I am not presently enthusiastic about the gold shares.

However, there are a number of them (all carry plenty of risk) that would do well market-wise if gold were increased to $50 an ounce.

Homestake Mining is one. It has gross revenues of $20,000,000 yearly. It pays quarterly dividends. There are around 2,000,000 common shares outstanding with no funded debt or preferred. Its annual production averages around 500,000 ounces.

I recently mentioned McIntyre Porcupine Mines in this column. It is one of the top world companies.

Dome Mines is a third. For the period from 1949-1953 its average annual production has been more than 150,000 ounces. It too pays quarterly dividends.

Small investor speculation in the gold shares is politically hazardous. If one knew what kind of a world we were to have from 1954 to 1980 and what Washington's attitude about gold would be in 1956, 1960, 1964, 1968 and so on, then risk might be undertaken. But, presently, there is little romance in the gold shares.

FREEMAN ACQUIRES NEW PRESSES

Over The Freeman's 83 years, new developments in press equipment have been purchased and installed by the newspaper, keeping the magic sounds of the printing press in tune with the times. Today's edition are off new presses, which have been in the making for over a year, marking another step forward in the paper's life.

Custom-built for The Freeman by the Goss Printing Press Company of Chicago, world's largest manufacturer of newspaper, magazine and rotogravure presses, the new Goss Deck-A-Tube presses, replace two Duplex presses which were installed in 1911 and 1923 respectively.

The immediate production capacity of The Freeman is 36 pages, which can be increased to 48 pages at a subsequent date without change of motors, electrical equipment or press foundation. The top capacity of the old presses was 32 pages. Speed of the new presses is 22,000 papers an hour.

Extensive renovations and remodeling of the first floor press rooms were made to accommodate the new presses, weighing 85 tons, which required four freight cars to ship the units here from the Goss plant in Chicago.

This new equipment will enable The Freeman to give better service to its subscribers and advertisers.

Together with the installation of the new presses there has been made improvements to the building and recently a parking area was acquired to the rear of the building on the Rondout Creek.

As of June 30, 1954, the total paid subscribers to The Freeman was 13,994 as determined by the Audit Bureau of Circulation. This is the highest ever reached by this paper and we are proud of the public confidence it represents.

TOBACCO AND CARS

We were riding along the highway the other day with a friend who had just given up smoking. As might be expected he was rather smug about his will power and argued the case of abstaining from tobacco in any form. "It can cause cancer," he said, "and rob you of years of your life."

All the while the discourse was going on we were crouched down in the seat. He was traveling a least fifteen miles an hour over the speed limit, twice he passed cars where he shouldn't have, once he took a chance by slowing down rather than coming to a full stop at a stop sign. Halfway home he offered to stop for a drink at a roadside tavern. We declined.

A little later when we were safely out of the car we thought about the fellow. There seems to be some disagreement among experts as to whether smoking cuts years off a smoker's life. But if he continues to drive the way he has been driving it will not be tobacco that causes his untimely demise.

FIRST JET TRANSPORT

Another milestone in aviation was passed recently when America's first jet transport plane was tested successfully at Renton Field, Renton, Washington. The plane is the Boeing 707, built to cruise at 550 miles per hour. Its pilot got the big plane in the air in less than half the distance of the 5,400-foot runway.

Officials of the Boeing company say that the transport, which can also be used as a tanker, will be able to cross the continent in less than five hours and will make non-stop trans-Atlantic flights in less than seven hours. As a tanker the 707 will be able to re-fuel bombers at high altitudes and at great speed. As a transport it will be capable of carrying heavy loads over long distances. A commercial version of the 707 is contemplated which will be able to carry 130 passengers.

Our security and our continued prosperity depends on continuous improvement of our transportation and communication facilities. The new plane will contribute to that end. It is becoming more and more difficult to remember these days, not so very many years ago, when planes were

THE FOUNDATIONS

It is not generally discussed but one of the reasons for the proliferation of foundations is the tax structure of our country. Many businesses, whose development cost blood, sweat and tears—to use a phrase—would have to go out of existence or be reduced by the sale of valuable properties, to meet inheritance taxes. To protect the continuity of the property, it is advantageous to give it to a foundation, the heirs working for a salary. They would not be better off if they continued to own the otherwise dissipated property.

Also, when a man has worked hard, used his skill and ingenuity to a maximum, accumulated a property which he cannot hand over to his heirs, he sets up a foundation during his life-time and uses his surplus for what he believes are good works.

When we think of foundations, the names Rockefeller, Carnegie, and Ford come to mind. These were set up by men who are now dead. The Sloan-Kettering Foundation, which is doing so much in cancer research, has been set up by men who are alive. Altogether there are between 6,000 and 7,000 foundations in the United States, of varying dimensions, with capital resources of $7,500,000,000 and with annual grants amounting to at least $300,000,000 to a number of causes. The reason the figures are estimates is that all the facts about foundations are not known.

Two committees of Congress started investigations into the nature and operations of foundations with unsatisfactory results. The Cox Committee died on the vine when its chairman, Eugene Cox, became ill and passed on; the Reece Committee, headed by Representative Carroll Reece, became involved in extraneous matters and its report is still awaited.

The Reece Committee set out to do four things:

"1. To secure a full understanding of the ground covered by the Cox Committee as disclosed in the Hearings it held, the files it maintained, and the reports it rendered."

"2. To determine the dimensions of the subject to be investigated and studied, and to satisfy myself, (Norman Dodd, Director of Research) as to its contents and its probable ramifications."

"3. To define the words: foundation, anti-American, subversive, political, and propaganda, in the sense in which they are used in H. Res. 217 and, if possible, dispose of their controversial connotations."

"4. To familiarize myself (Norman Dodd) with the expressions of purpose customarily used in Foundation charters."

Naturally, in the present atmosphere in Washington, it hopped onto point 3 and bogged down on it because it became involved in hopeless controversy, particularly when a so-called expert was called upon to identify a few sentences from the "Rerum Novarum." I believe, and lacked the common sense to refuse to identify sentences taken out of context without being shown the document from which the sentences were read. It is an old trick to read something from the Bible, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution to support some form of radicalism. To use the "Rerum Novarum" or the "Quadragesimo Anno" to prove that a Pope supported Marxian ideas is nonsense because no encyclical of any Pope of the Roman Catholic Church ever supported Marxism.

Norman Dodd gives the following definition for "un-American and Subversive": "Any action having as its purpose the alteration of either the principle or the form of the United States Government by other than constitutional means. (This definition is derived from a study of this subject made by the Brookings Institute.)"

This definition is too narrow. Suppose an agent of a foreign government, while accepting and supporting the Constitution, penetrates into an official position, obeys all the rules and regulations, but gives to his activities a twist which harms the United States. I will cite the Aesopian phrase, "Agrarian Reformers," invented by Communists to confuse the American people and to twist American policy to be favorable to the Chinese Communists. Surely, this does not involve an unconstitutional act, it is simply a lie, knowingly repeated until it is believed by important persons who can affect public opinion or public policy.

It would seem to be that no worthwhile investigation of the foundations can be made to fit inadequate definitions. If a committee of Congress wants to investigate the foundations, it should first get the facts and then evaluate them from the data, not from a set of definitions. ### WHY PEOPLE GO TO A PHYSICIAN

If you were to guess the commonest cause for which people go to their doctors, you would likely suggest pain of some sort, likely a headache or a pain in the abdomen. However a report is now out from the Register General in England and published by the National Health Service, London, which states that the common cold is the principal cause of visits to physician.

The report deals with the clinical records of eight family physicians during a 12-month period and says that one in eight of these patients were treated for the common cold. Out of a total of nearly 28,000 patients, 1,485 males and 2,079 females were seen for this reason. Altogether 6,920 consultations were ascribed to the common cold, which, along with bronchitis, influenza and other nose-throat-chest diseases accounted for a large proportion of the total consultations.

Among the symptoms causing consultations were a cough, 1,230; headache, 566, mainly among women; disturbance of sleep, 434. More than 3,000 consultations were diagnosed as psychoneurosis—emotional disturbance. Just over 1,000 were due to respiratory tuberculosis.

These physicians were consulted by about two-thirds of their patients during the year and gave an average of 3.8 consultations for each patient on their list. Three out of five were women patients. A total of 3,090 or about 11 per cent were referred to hospitals.

We all know the symptoms of the common cold, sensation of burning in the nose, water discharge from nose, sneezing, watering eyes, slight fever, loss of voice, etc. What about treatment? With a beginning cold, get off the feet so as to take the strain off the heart. Hot foot baths. If mustard is used in these baths have 8 teaspoons to the gallon of water. Hot drinks and covering with warm blankets is helpful. Often a drug such as aspirin or quinine is used to cause sweating. A couple of five-grain aspirin tablets at intervals of two to four hours for the first day or two often help so long as the patient is not sensitive or allergic to aspirin. Sometimes a teaspoon of baking soda in a glass of water three or four times a day helps ward off a cold. A common purgative such as Epsom salts has also been found useful.

The Common Cold

There are many helpful suggestions in Dr. Barton's booklet entitled "The Common Cold," which may be obtained by sending 25 cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing, to The Bell Syndicate, Inc., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—A convincing record of Eisenhower administration efforts to discredit the Tennessee Valley Authority has been built up over the past year and a half.

It is climaxed by the current controversy over President Eisenhower's personal instructions to the Budget Bureau and the Atomic Energy Commission.

These instructions—unless upset by Congressional action—will require AEC to act as a power broker in making a contract with the Dixon-Yates group of privately owned utilities. The contract would call for the erection of a steam generating plant at West Memphis, Ark.

This would not be to supply the Atomic Energy Commission with power, however. It would be power to supply TVA's long-contract customers like the city of Memphis.

By this roundabout process, TVA would be permanently stopped on its plan to build a steam generating plant at Fulton, Tenn., north of Memphis, to meet future power requirements of this area.

The crowning irony of this situation would be that TVA would have to pay for the private power fed into its system. The cost to TVA has been estimated at two million dollars a year or more higher than if the power were generated in a TVA plant.

In February, 1953, President Eisenhower unveiled his "partnership power policy," whereby government would work with private enterprise to develop river valleys. This is the essence of the Dixon-Yates program which is now being forced on the area.

Two months later ex-President Herbert Hoover declared in a Cleveland speech that the federal government should get out of the power business as fast as possible to "rescue free men from this variety of creeping socialism."

President Eisenhower picked up the "creeping socialism" phrase in a speech not long afterwards. Asked about this at a press conference, the President cited TVA as an example although he added that he had said 1,000 times he was not out to destroy TVA.

This reference came just at the time TVA's appropriation was being considered in Congress, however. And it is believed to have had considerable influence in confirming the Eisenhower administration plan to kill the authorization for the Fulton power plant near Memphis.

The next crack at TVA came from Clarence Manion, Notre Dame law dean, in a couple of television appearances. Dean Manion declared TVA should never have been built and should be sold to private interests. Later he said that these frank statements were responsible for his removal as Chairman of the Commission on Inter-Governmental Relations, at President Eisenhower's request.

Other Administration spokesmen kept up the attack and were not fired. Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay declared that in his opinion TVA was "definitely wrong." Undersecretary of Interior Ralph A. Tudor and Assistant Secretary Fred G. Aandahl both assailed it.

The administration's refusal to reappoint Gordon Clapp as chairman of TVA after 20 years of efficient and devoted public service showed definitely which way the wind was blowing.

When the Budget Bureau again this year refused to recommend construction of the Fulton steam plant, many TVA supporters began to give up.

The administration argument was that TVA's future power load estimates were not accurate and needed further study. When the administration came out with its plan to have Dixon-Yates develop additional generating capacity for this area, however, it only tended to confirm that the TVA estimates had been correct. The new arrangement of having private power supplement TVA's own supply had been hinted at in President Eisenhower's budget message of this year. It did not come out in the open until April, and even then it had to be smoked out by Rep. Chet Holifield (D., Calif.), in Atomic Energy Committee hearings, of all places.

The arguments for and against the Dixon-Yates proposal are so complicated that few people can understand them. In presenting the administration case, however, its spokesmen have not hesitated to use any argument that would discredit the TVA. This includes the as yet unproved claim that TVA overcharged AEC for its power.

Minority Action Keeps Congress From Working on Big Legislative Program

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 26—Conduct

"unbecoming a United States senator" and which "brings the United States Senate itself into disrepute" has just been witnessed by the American people as they have watched a group of senators in the minority striving to impose their will on a frustrated majority.

Where is the resolution of "censure" for the senators who use "methods" that override constitutional ethics and the rules of fair play and seek to prevent the passage of laws through a contest in physical endurance, with all-night sessions, prearranged relays of speakers and unlimited debate in what is known as a "filibuster."

For several days now the Congress of the United States has been unable to function on a legislative program involving billions of dollars of appropriations and on measures of far-reaching consequence to the welfare of the people. The accumulated damage allegedly done by Senator McCarthy, in his brusque handling of persons accused of having Communist connections, is infinitesimal compared with the damage done by the "filibuster" of the last several days not only to the public business but to the prestige of the Senate itself, both here and abroad.

For the "filibuster" is just a palpably dishonest device whereby by a roll-call vote, desired by the majority, is prevented through the incessant speechmaking of the minority, who hope by these tactics to force the majority to yield lest other bills—also sought by the majority—be sidetracked or lost if they do not come to a vote before the end of the session. No piece of legislation was ever so bad that it couldn't, if passed, be promptly repealed or amended when subsequent experience shows its errors. Hence no "filibuster" is ever justified in a constitutional democracy.

But who were the senators conducting the latest "filibuster"? Did they come from the ranks of the "wicked reactionaries"? On the contrary, the group which has been engaged in the longest "filibuster" in the history of the Senate is composed primarily of so-called "liberals"—the men who usually prate about constitutionalism and the "rights of the people" and about the "methods" of those who, they claim, are transgressing constitutional rights and trying to bring about "thought control" and "conformity of thought."

"Filibustering" itself, of course is not unconstitutional any more than is browbeating of witnesses before congressional committees or using the floor of Congress to call citizens "liars" and other epithets under cover of congressional immunity. But when the so-called "liberals" use disgraceful "methods" and get big headlines and their pictures in the newspapers as participants in a "talkathon," there are strangely enough, no resolutions of "censure" introduced nor any telegrams gathered by public-relations firms from lists of prominent people to clamor for the punishment of these obstructionists.

There is always a plausible excuse given by the "filibusters." This time it is that they wish to prevent what they call a "give-away" of certain atomic-energy developments by the government to private industry, though government-owned channels in radio and television have long been awarded to private companies which make profits thereon. It's an age-old controversy between government ownership and private ownership, between state socialism or Communist socialism and private enterprise. The steady pressure for an all-powerful state, in which a political bureaucracy shall dispense favors to its political henchmen, has never let up since the new dealers and fair dealers began to apply the scheme in various pieces of legislation.

The American people are really behind President Eisenhower in his drive to get the government out of business and to give the people the opportunity to earn their own living and to conserve their savings and invest them in business enterprises, but the minority in the Senate uses the special argument that the issue isn't "fully understood" as if the voluminous record of millions of words spoken in several days of continuous debate will ever be read by anybody except the official stenographers.

The issue is well understood already. It is the difference between freedom of initiative and the stifling of initiative, between private enterprise and government ownership or control of every business, every retail store and every doctor's office, with no incentive to service and no competition to insure the quality of the product at the lowest price.

But, irrespective of the merits of this question, if the majority are ready to vote, why should the coercive tactics of a group of senators with strong lungs defeat another group which apparently must appear in our government business, every retail store and every doctor's office, with no incentive to service and no competition to insure the quality of the product at the lowest price.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

pers did not report who did what to provoke the so-called mass punishment of a company of American soldiers at Fort Dix, consisting of 45 minutes at attention, which is now the subject of a court-martial for a lieutenant and a sergeant. But if mass punishment is illegal today, it wasn't as recently as 1941 when Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear turned a motor column around on the road near Memphis, sent the whole bunch back to the spot where some of the soldiers had yelled at some girls on a golf course and made them dismount and hoof it many a weary mile to where they were headed in the first place.

I remember discussing this with Johnny Sorrels, the Scripps-Howard editor, a soldier himself in the first war and father of a lieutenant of paratroops then in training down at Bragg. Johnny came from Memphis and he was a solid American spiritually as well as physically. He said well, this would show those fellows that they were not just carefree American youth any more but soldiers subject to discipline and punishment for things they could get away with in civil life. If American women were not free from molestation by American soldiers, then we were creating a terrible menace in building up the army. There was too much of that wolf-cub business then and the practice carried over into civil life on a theory that girls and women feel that they are not quite at their best unless burns on foot or on trucks proposition them.

General Lear's authority to inflict this punishment was not challenged and nobody knows that it didn't retard, however slightly, an indecent tendency of the time. However, it didn't deter a mass of swine, most of them in naval uniform, from horrible atrocities in San Francisco when peace broke. Women were raped in public and the command was just helpless.

There should have been mass executions for that and it would do no harm to remember that might once in a while as punishment that discipline and punishment, though uncomfortable, pay off in results. This horror was answer enough to the apple-shiners who thought it was "democratic" to call in photographers to shoot pictures of the colonel serving breakfast in bed to a buck private.

I saw a scene in a field in France identical with one at Dix except that the term was only 15 minutes and the one who ordered the mass punishment was John J. Pershing, who never smiled at an enlisted soldier except in pinning a medal on him for the movie cameras when he would suddenly put out his hand and relax his iron face.

Word got around that he was on his way to make a spot check on the First Infantry Division, the big red one, which turned out to be his favorite in the end. The First is now in Germany and one of the best in the whole world. In 1917, it had a relatively small strength of old regulars. The rest were either volunteers or draftees and very green. Up toward the top of the division area, near the marines, Pershing's car whirled around the shoulder of a hill and came on an infantry company colting around after lunch. The captain panicked at the sight of those four stars on that red flag. Probably he had never seen that many stars before. Pershing, March and Bliss were the only ones who had that many and they were not often on view.

The captain yelled to the sergeant and the sergeant yelled "fall in" and then "attention." Pershing started down the line, glaring. In a few seconds he blew up. Here was a rookie with a sprig of evergreen stuck in the blue infantry ribbon on campaign hat, chewing gum and gawking down the line like a movie fan at the great General Pershing.

This American citizen, some fond mother's son and a patriot who may have died in battle later on, might have been a dog. "Get that man out of there! Face him about! Take that gum out of his mouth! Show him the true soldier's position of 'attention'! Take that weed out of his hand! Make him stand there at attention for fifteen minutes and make the company stand at attention too! You too, captain!" The sergeant with his fingers actually fished the gum out of the dough boy's mouth.

Pershing got back in his car and disappeared.

The soldier was absolutely crushed. He was a hero-worshipper, staring at his idol, and the old man had made a bum of him before the whole company and all

Yale Man Asks Safer Cigarettes With New Tobacco

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Sao Paulo, Brazil, July 26 (AP)—A try at making cigarettes safe from any threat of heart disease and cancer was proposed today by Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond of Yale University.

The answer, he said in a paper for the Sixth International Cancer Congress here, could be to develop new types of strains of cigarette tobacco free of the agent or agents which some scientists suspect may be causing or contributing to heart trouble and cancer.

This might be accomplished in two years, but it might take as many as seven, the specialist said.

Hammond is a biometrician at Yale and also director of statistical research for the American Cancer Society. He and Dr. Daniel Horn reported last month that men aged 50 to 70 who smoke a pack of cigarettes daily are about twice as likely to die of heart trouble or cancer of all types as non-smokers.

On Special Types

Smoking a pipe or cigars seems not to carry much if any risks, said Hammond, a pipe smoker himself. The danger from cigarettes, he went on, could be in the special types of tobacco which have been developed for cigarettes.

Development of a "harmless strain of tobacco plant" would be more practical, he asserted, than to use a highly toxin strain and then attempt to remove the harmful ingredients from the tobacco by chemical means or from the smoke by a filter or condenser.

Hammond said the chemical composition varies considerably in different types of tobacco, even in different batches of the same general type.

The Russian delegation had reported that the Soviets had not been able to produce skin cancers in mice by painting them with tobacco extracts. Maybe, they said, the reason was that their Georgian tobacco is different from American varieties.

One person was reported injured in a two-car mishap on Railroad avenue Sunday. Officers Floyd Krom and Benjamin Osterhoudt reported at 3:59 p. m. that the car of Henry Dumond, 38, of 17 Belvedere street was parked on Railroad avenue opposite the Greyhound bus terminal and the sedan of Bert A. Goldsmith, of Ellenville, was backing up. Mildred Dumond, 40, of 17 Belvedere street, suffered a neck injury and was treated by a doctor, the report said.

A Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. official said the crew apparently drilled into a hole that already had dynamite in it. Police were notified at 8:01 p. m. Saturday that Robert Marshall, 27, of 54 Ann street, was treated for a wound in the left side of the abdomen at the emergency room of Kingston Hospital and was admitted for overnight. Officers William Slover and George Dohnken investigated and reported that Marshall refused information as to how he was injured other than to say that "it occurred on the Strand."

Many Changes in Freeman Building Downtown Area

Sturdy as the day it was erected, the main part of The Freeman building has seen many changes in the downtown area.

A peek at its history reveals the majestic structure at Broadway and West Strand has been the hub of activity for years.

It has seen times change in many ways, and an interesting yarn could be spun by a writer delving into the legends of bygone days, the era of the Delaware and Hudson Canal, Ulster & Delaware Railroad, a vast shopping center around the Strand, all past history now.

Treasure for Posterity

The Freeman morgue, or library of browning volumes is filled with the annals of the community, word pictures and photographs for posterity.

A quick glance at the records reveals that the building itself has undergone a number of changes and was remodeled at various times to house a number of enterprises, but the newspaper business has been with it a long time.

It has had a colorful existence and once was linked to the entertainment world with its slogan: There's no business like show business.

Yes, the building's top floor once was an opera house, Sampson's Opera House, where all the big time theatrical features were presented by traveling stock companies.

Fire Changes All

The auditorium was popular. Political orators used it to discuss their platforms, churches and societies held theatricals there, and schools used it for graduation, oldtimers say.

The lower floor was a clothing store run by the Sampson Brothers, who did a flourishing business.

Things changed one cold January night in 1885. A fire broke out in the upstairs opera house following a performance of The Bandit King played by a road company.

Flames gouged the inside, as revealed in the accompanying photo, but the sturdy wall held.

At a recent meeting of volunteer firemen, City Historian Joseph F. Sullivan recited an account of fighting the fire as he heard it told for years around the engine house Union Hose.

A 59-year member of the company, Sullivan said he oftentimes heard the ever-ready volleys recite the story of the Sampson Opera House blaze. He was nine years old when it happened.

Fireman Becomes Icicle

As the historian remembers the tales, one rugged hose handler froze to the building in a mass of ice from the deluge that ran down the sides.

Sullivan guesses that the brave fire laddie might have had an extra jigger or so to keep him warm and was a bit too unsteady to stand by himself.

He was still leaning against the building when the fire companies were ready to move out. Some of his buddies took the axes and chopped him loose, thereafter rushing him to a tavern to thaw.

Standing by one of the old pot-bellied stoves, as red as a present day neon sign, the floor was covered with an inch of water by the time the volunteer thawed completely.

Freeman Moves In

When the building was remodeled and the upper floor turned into offices instead of a theatre, The Freeman leased as much space as it could. This was done because the paper had outgrown its quarters on Mill street.

Further expansion forced removal of the printing plant to Ferry street, in a section of the former Cornell building, where presses rolled off daily editions until 1911.

That year, the Sampson building was for sale, and became the home of the Freeman, with several departments under one roof—newspaper, job printing and book binding.

One 16-page unit of the Duplex press was installed and was sufficient for a time, but business grew and papers had to be printed in two sections.

First 32-Page Paper

A special feature, with pictures in the edition of February 9, 1923 called attention to the first 32-page paper printed in the city.

The paper was turned out on the first Duplex and an additional 16-page press installed by the firm.

Prior to installation, another section had been added to the building, after purchase of an adjoining grill once operated by the late Frank P. Quigley.

Acquisition of the extra property gave The Freeman a full block on Broadway between West Strand and Ferry street, fronting on the main thoroughfare.

Colonial Touch Added

The photo taken in 1923 shows the improvement and different architectural style, which remained the same until the renovation this spring, which added a touch of the Colonial style.

Looking at the building today, City Historian Sullivan, a compositor on the paper, remarked that it surely would impress the oldtimers if they could come back from the days when the old canal and U. & D. Railroad flourished, and downtown was the shopping center of the community.

Although the old building still stands, progress has not stood still on The Freeman with its 13,944 paid copies printed daily, and the organization has kept pace with the various improvements and advances in all phases of the business.

New Parking Lot for Freeman Employees

Here is the new parking lot (upper photo), completely paved, for employees of The Freeman, bordering the Rondout creek with entrance off Canal street. Purchased last year from the S. D. Coykendall Estate, the site was formerly occupied by a building (below) once used as a powerhouse by the business interests of the estate. Prior to the time it was razed, the building was idle for years and had deteriorated beyond repair for practical use.

New Presses Signal Growth

of Chicago, which installed the new presses, is to take the two older units for reconditioning and resale. They are Duplex presses, one unit having been installed in 1911 and the other in 1923. The Duplex company is now owned by Goss.

To Moon and Back

Thousands of miles of newsprint rolled through the Duplex presses in their years of steady service, and without Einsteinian calculations, it appears safe to say the ribbon of paper could have reached the moon and extended a long way back.

Since installation of the first Duplex in 1911, the Freeman circulation has grown steadily year by year, and the two Goss units, equipped with every modern production device, are designed to permit expansion with addition of later improvements. The twin presses installed over a sturdy press pit weigh 85 tons. As they are now set up, one prints 16 and the other 20 pages. Sections may be added to increase the production capacity of both to 24 pages, or a 48-page issue of The Freeman. The top capacity of the old units was 32 pages.

Simplified Press

The Goss Dek-A-Tube is a simplified stereotype press. It is quieter in operation, prints more clearly and has a wide range of flexibility for either black-and-white or color printing. It has roller and ball bearings throughout.

The presses were engineered for accessibility and fine printing qualities with all adjustments and controls within convenient reach. It has ample working space between units making it easy to plate up and web up, allowing for quick plate pickup speed operations.

The size of the newspaper may be increased in multiples of two pages to meet fluctuations in advertising linage from day to day with a minimum use of newsprint and manpower. The press has a heavy duty folder with a 48-page capacity. Its maximum speed is 22,000 standard format papers an hour.

Housings for all gears on the outside of the press frame provide for personnel safety and protect the working parts from dirt and other hazards. Units over two decks have platforms with handrails.

Two 50-horsepower electric motors operate the units and with each is a five-horsepower starting motor. The intricate electrical system for operation of the presses was installed by Joseph A. McNelis & Co., of 209 Main street, who did similar work for installation of the second older unit in 1923.

Ordered in 1953

The Freeman ordered the presses on April 22, 1953 and work started in preparation for their installation on July 28, 1953.

Preliminary work by the Colonial Construction Co., of this city, included installation of heavy steel rafters and new brick walls on sides of the building nearest the new press, which is on the west side of the main floor opposite the former press.

The press pit floor is three feet thick and the walls which support the inside ends of the press units are eight inches thick. The pit is five feet deep to allow clearance underneath for workmen. Slots under the rolls of newsprint are slightly deeper than those of the old presses. One unit holds four and the other six rolls of newsprint weighing between 850 and 900 pounds each.

Took About Year

Planning and installation of the new press units required about a year. This included "tailoring" to fit the press-pit space in the Freeman building. The units were shipped here from Chicago in four freight cars, arriving here in sections housed in specially made crates. The old units will be shipped out sectionally in similar crates for complete reconditioning at Chicago before they are sold.

Kenneth H. Rosa, of Battle Creek, Mich., who works out of Chicago for the Goss Company, was in charge of installing the press here. He was assisted by Skidmore & Mason, newspaper press erectors and riggers, of New York city. Seven men worked steadily for about two months on the installation. The sections were trucked to the building by VanEtten & Hogan, of 150 Wall street.

In preparation for the erection of the presses other local contractors included the Jay Steel Products Co., which did the necessary steel work; J. A. Cassidy & Son, the mill work; Leo Yonnetti, the painting.

The Universal Road Machinery made adjustments to composing room equipment and the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. installed new transformers for the increased power required by the new presses and other machinery.

Used in Metros

Goss presses print such larger newspapers as the Chicago Tribune, New York Daily News, Miami Herald, Detroit Free Press and many other outstanding newspapers of the nation.

Joseph A. McNelis & Co. installed a complete new electrical system throughout the plant before the new press began operation. It is of 800 ampere capacity, with three-phase, four-wire, replacing the old two-phase type.

Modern power and lighting panelboards have been installed on the various floors, making the electrical installation one of the most up-to-date in newspaper printing.

Each press unit is controlled by a specially designed General Electric control panel, which operates the main 50-horsepower drive motors and various motors for hoists, jogs, brakes, rewinders and conveyors. Twenty special push-button stations are mounted at different locations on each press to give the operators immediate control from the various positions.

May Be Used Singly

The presses may be operated singly or paralleled together, depending upon the size of the day's paper. An outstanding modern feature is the web-breaker, mounted at various positions on the paper rolls.

The shoe of the breaker comes in contact with the paper and in the event of a break or tear, the shoe drops out of position and will immediately stop the presses.

Most modern also is the press room illumination. It includes streamlined fluorescent fixtures, eight feet long, mounted at 45-degree angles to provide the most efficient lighting available today.

Intricate webbing, worming and extension of electrical wiring, some in closely fitted patterns, was required in setting up power and light facilities in the new press room area.

The presses are operated by Joseph H. Lawson, foreman; Arthur F. Sheltner, assistant foreman; Percy Fairbrother, George C. Kuriger and John W. Riker.

Now the units will roll six days a week, like the others did before them through the years, reflecting the daily life of this community and environs, and recording volumes of history in new millions of words.

Roosevelt and spoke yesterday at Canandaigua and last night in Manchester, Saturday, he was in Ithaca.

Harriman made his announcement over a local television program in New York city.

He said that Thomas Cullen, Democratic leader of Orange county, where Harriman lives, was "outspoken for me." The former federal official said some state party leaders had "talked" with him, but he did not elaborate.

"All factors would have to be considered by the delegates in September," Harr' an said. "If they decide they want me, I will be proud to accept and take my coat off and fight for the principles I believe in."

Roosevelt, when informed of Harriman's declaration, said in Rochester that he would have "no comment until I have read Harriman's statement, and probably not then."

He told a newsman that that was the same remark Harriman had made when asked to comment on Roosevelt's candidacy.

Harriman, when asked yesterday about Roosevelt's open campaign, said: "That is a question of judgment and a question of method."

He stressed that he and Roosevelt had been and still were "friends" of long standing. He said there was no commitment concerning the nomination between them.

New York Selects Pelham Bay Tract

Albany, July 26 (AP)—New York state has selected a 124-acre tract in the Pelham Bay Park area of the Bronx as the site for its new 45-million-dollar, 4,000-bed mental hospital.

Choice of the site, near Yeshiva University's Albert Einstein College of Medicine and the East Bronx General Hospital, was announced yesterday by Gov. Dewey.

The mental hygiene department said the three institutions would be expected to work together in providing services for patients, performing research and teaching.

The projected hospital will be the first completely new institution to have been built by the department since World War 2.

Funds for construction of the hospital are expected to come largely from a 350-million-dollar mental hygiene bond issue sought by the Dewey administration. Voters will pass on the bond proposal in a referendum on Election Day, Nov. 2.

The building site runs along the west side of the Hutchinson River Parkway, extending south from its intersection with Bronx and Pelham Parkway. Robert Moses, the city's construction coordinator, helped select the location.

General Is Guest

The Hague, Netherlands, July 26 (AP)—U. S. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, commander of the U. S. Strategic Air Force, was Prince Bernhard's weekend guest at the royal country residence Soestdijk Palace, a court announcement said today. Seen off by the Prince, the general left Schiphol Airport this morning for Oslo, Norway.

Largest Maneuvers

San Diego, Calif., July 26 (AP)—The navy today began what it said was the largest maneuvers since World War 2 along the length of the west coast. More than 50 ships, carrying 18,000 personnel, started moving from San Diego and Long Beach, Calif.

PLEADING FOR A DRINK—This summer's steady heat wave is causing top leaves and tassels of cornplants to wither on midwest farms. Arthur Clark points out damage to a plant on his 160-acre field of seed corn near Homer, Ill. Federal crop officials say another week of intense heat would seriously damage the entire crop.

Shivers May Face Runoff in Texas

Dallas, Tex., July 26 (AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers, who led Texas Democrats' bolt to Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952, apparently faces a runoff election in his bid for an unprecedented third term.

His opponent Ralph Yarborough, champion of the "loyalist" who stuck with Democrat Adlai Stevenson in the presidential race.

Unofficial returns from Saturday's primary gave Shivers a 17,158 lead over Yarborough, not enough in the four-man race for the conservatives' champion to avoid an Aug. 28 second primary.

Both Shivers and Yarborough predicted victory Aug. 28. A runoff election is required when no candidate has a clear majority over all others. Arlon B. (Cyclone) Davis and J. J. Holmes polled 2.72 per cent of the vote tabulated thus far by the Texas election bureau and that was apparently enough to force a runoff between the two top men.

Democratic nomination in the past has been tantamount to election.

To Resume Counting

The bureau is an unofficial vote-counting agency sponsored by Texas newspapers and radio stations. It was to resume counting today. Sixty to 80 thousand votes are still out.

A record 1,273,100 votes had been tabulated by 6:30 p. m. (CST) last night. This was more than ever before in a non-presidential election year. Shivers had 627,736; Yarborough 610,578; Holmes 19,115; Davis 15,671.

Texas Republicans who held their fourth primary in history Saturday voted in minute numbers. No count was made since the candidates were unopposed. But an indication of how many did vote came in Harris county (Houston), which went for Eisenhower in 1952 by a good margin. There 320 Republican ballots were cast.

The bitter struggle between the conservatives and liberals—shown in the governor's race—overshadowed the sweeping victories of Senate minority leader Lyndon B. Johnson and House minority leader Sam Rayburn and the crumbling of the power of south Texas political boss George B. Parr.

Johnson won nomination for a second term and Rayburn for his 22nd. Johnson had 818,216 votes to 318,004 for state Rep. Dudley Dougherty. Rayburn defeated A. G. McRae 29,520 to 9,950.

Siege Laid to Building

Cairo, Egypt, July 26 (AP)—Police laid siege today to Cairo headquarters of Egypt's Coptic Christians, invaded by an extremist gang which kidnapped aged patriarch Amba Yousab in an attempt to force him to resign. The Interior Ministry said the abduction was staged by members of the "Copt Umma" organization which wants the 6-year-old patriarch replaced by a younger man.

How much horsepower in your ad program?

If you want your products to move faster, take a cue from the automobile people. They stepped up their newspaper advertising by 47.1% last year.

BIG NATIONAL ADVERTISERS of all types of products increased their newspaper advertising heavily in 1953.

But in the giant automotive field—where manufacturers had to sell as never before—they turned to newspapers with even more dramatic force.

Certainly these big advertisers use other media to help move their mountainous production—but they rely on newspapers as the basic medium in their sales effort.

They know that almost all the people in every town read a newspaper just about every day. It's one thing people won't do without!

They know that people read the newspaper for the ads as well as for the news—and that sales action follows newspaper reading!

IF YOU SELL PRODUCTS IN THIS AREA—don't settle for advertising that covers part of your market part of the time. For fast movement of your products, you need a steady, high-power ad program that hits on all cylinders!

If you're not getting newspaper advertising on all your products, don't delay. Tell your wholesalers and manufacturers' men you want full support in your local newspaper.

Pictorial Review of Freeman Press Installation

Progress of Press Installation Seen In Various Stages

The Freeman has been printed for the past several days on its two new presses, which were built expressly to meet the requirements of the paper by The Goss Printing Press Company of Chicago, world's largest manufacturer of newspaper, magazine and rotogravure presses.

Custom-built, the presses were ordered in April, 1953 and work started in preparation for their installation in July of that year by the Colonial Construction Company of Kingston.

During the progress of installation, The Freeman photographer took a number of shots, which are herewith presented.

No. 1. Units arrive from the Goss plant in Chicago in large wooden packing cases, especially constructed for shipment of printing presses, and placed on the rear platform of the New York Central freight house here. These cases are to be utilized for the return of the presses formerly used by The Freeman. Four freight cars were required to ship the units here. Van Etten and Hogan trucked the cases containing the units to The Freeman building.

No. 2. Installation of the first of one of the presses and the two electric drive motors, which consist of two 50-horsepower motors and two five-horsepower starting motors. The press pits, which are five feet deep, allow clearance underneath for the pressmen, also may be seen. Kenneth H. Rosa of Battle Creek, Michigan, mechanical engineer for the Goss Company, is supervising the work of installation.

No. 3. Employees of Skidmore and Mason of New York City, newspaper press erectors and riggers, place one of the side frames of a unit in position. The presses were shipped completely dismantled and were assembled in The Freeman press room, which was reconstructed for the new machinery. Each press is a distinct and separate machine and they weigh 85 tons. A block and fall from a gantry were used to place the heavy units in position.

No. 4. Installation of rollers and gears, the second step in erecting the presses. Here the cylinders and ink drums were assembled and placed into the side frames of each unit.

The pictures on the right, from top to bottom, show:

No. 1. Joseph A. McNelis of the Joseph A. McNelis & Co., which installed the intricate electric system, is shown working on one of the presses. The 50-horsepower electric motors operate the units and with each is a five-horsepower starting motor. Riggers also may be seen unpacking unit parts for the second press.

No. 2. One press has been completed and work is progressing on the second press. It took approximately four weeks to assemble the first press.

No. 3. Both presses are nearing completion. Before being shipped here, the presses were erected at the factory and tested and each part had to be installed into an exact position as when built at the plant.

No. 4. The presses are ready to test. The rolls of newsprint weighing between 850 and 900 pounds each have been hoisted electrically into place on the presses, which have a maximum speed of 22,000 papers an hour. With the installation of the new presses, The Freeman's immediate production capacity has been increased to 36 pages. Sections may be added to both presses for a top capacity of 48 pages. The capacity of the replaced presses was 32 pages. Two weeks' running is usually required to test the different sections of both of these modern presses. This modern designed Dek-A-Tube high speed press is the second of its kind now in operation in the United States.

Local Rainfall

woodlands.

Weekly Report Given

The Markets Bureau of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets, in a weekly report released yesterday, noted: "In spite of some rainfall last week, the lack of soil moisture has now apparently reached the dangerous stage quite generally throughout the state."

The conservation spokesman said forests were a little drier than normal, but said the threat of fire was not critical. He said, however, that generally there was more danger of forest fire now than there was a year ago.

The Adirondacks, he said, were better off than wooded areas in such districts as the lower Hudson Valley and the southern tier.

Summer Weather General (By The Associated Press)

Seasonal summer weather was general today.

There were a few areas of exception to the pleasant outlook of fair skies and temperatures in the 80s and 90s.

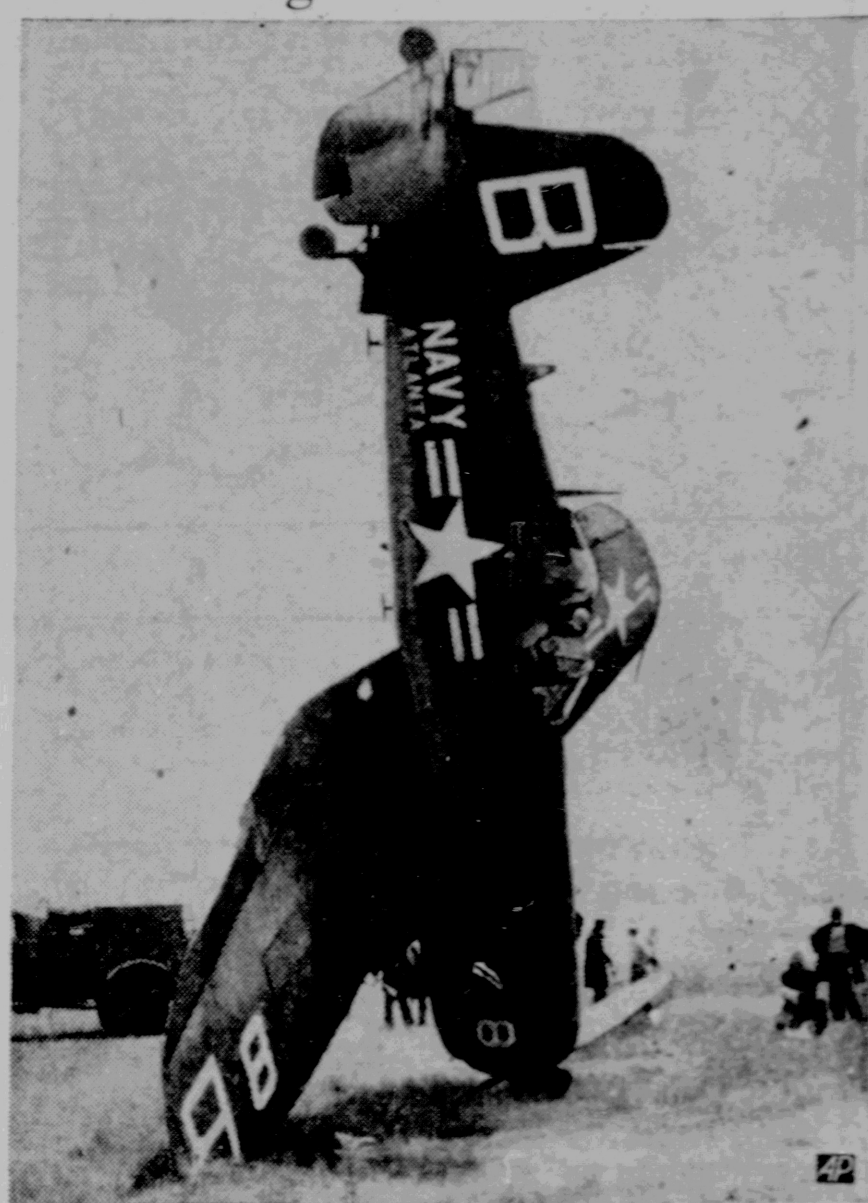

The western plateau states, the Pacific Northwest and the southeast had scattered showers and thundershowers, and the Texas-Oklahoma section had another scorcher such as produced these Sunday sizzlers:

Hobart, Okla., 113; Mineral Wells, Tex., 112; and Dallas, 111, a record for that city.

Scattered light showers fell Sunday in New England, the North Atlantic states, the south, and in southeastern Colorado, Chattanooga, Tenn., however, got a 2.33 inches soaking.

A noise of 150 decibels is enough to cause pain in a human ear.

Three Escape Serious Injury in Accident

New York, July 26 (AP)—Three persons from White Plains escaped serious injury Saturday night when their automobile was struck and overturned by another car that sped away from the scene of the accident at the intersection of Columbus avenue and 86th street.

Police sent out an alarm for the hit-and-run car, a light-colored 1947 or 1948 model, with New Jersey license plates. Police said it ran through a red light and had no headlights on when it hit the other car.

The driver of the overturned car, John H. Clark, 45, of 59 West Post Rd., White Plains, was given a summons for driving without a license. He told police the car was owned by his wife, Iona.

Mr. Clark refused medical aid, but his two passengers were taken to Knickerbocker Hospital. John Gaskin, 35, who gave his address as the Burke Foundation Convalescent Home, Mamaroneck avenue, White Plains, was treated for shoulder injuries. The other passenger, Miss Amelia Louck, of 131 Prospect avenue, White Plains, was treated for contusions of the right ear and left leg, police said.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Neighbor, have you ever heard about the bad businessmen—"wolves of Wall Street"? "Entrenched special interests"? "Sinister forces of wealth"? "Economic royalists"? "Privileged princes of greed"? "The money changers in the temple"? These were the political darts that knocked their hats off in a gale of political abuses, beginning in 1933.

The "Dealer's" ambition was to King. He almost succeeded in devaluing the gold standard of the dollar, to which a rubber stamp and willing Congress said—"O.K." Thus began control of the purse strings, which included our savings and pay checks.

Then started a wholesale raid to take over the Enterprise System in the name of "Planned Economy." The bad businessmen were hog-tied and silenced.

The "Dealers" took control of the purse strings from Congress—where it belonged—and passed it into the hands of a President—where it did not belong. These were steps taken to undermine and control the conduct and savings of all our citizens. A personal Kingdom!

President Eisenhower is opposed to any control by Government over the liberty and freedom of our people. Such would mean Statism. He believes in the freedom of Enterprise. If we lose these freedoms, neighbor, we will get a North Korean-Chinese half-cut.

We want no Kings in our Republic!

Motorcyclist Is Killed

Milford, Pa., July 26 (AP)—Robert Baker, Jr., 17, of Jersey City, N. J., was fatally injured when his motorcycle failed to negotiate a turn, left the road and he was thrown about 45 feet Saturday on Route 590, 18 miles west of here. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Wayne Memorial Hospital, Honesdale, Pa. Two other Jersey City motorcyclists, Alfred Kreis, 17, and Oscar Guenther, were traveling with Baker.

Found Dead in Elevator

New York, July 26 (AP)—A man was found dead today in a self-service elevator of a West Side hotel. Papers in his pocket carried the name Patrick Santoro, 44, of Flushing, Queens. Police said the man apparently died of natural causes but the body was taken to Bellevue Hospital Morgue for autopsy. The body was found by a night watchman checking failure of the elevator to operate properly.

The roads built by ancient Rome still form the skeleton for the highways of Europe.

Two Are Hurt, Third Is Held On License Charge

Two youths were injured and a third was issued a summons charging him with unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle as a result of a one-car accident on the Kripplebush road a mile south of Krumville about 1:15 a. m. Sunday, state police reported.

Injured were Charles Osterhoudt, 17, of Stone Ridge, who received lacerations of the head and elbow, and Donald Walsh, 17, of New London Naval Base, Conn., who received lacerations and contusions of the head, neck and shoulder, troopers said. They were treated at the office of Dr. Anthony Tocco at Stone Ridge.

Troopers said they were passengers in an automobile that struck a telephone pole. The driver, Kenneth Tokle, 17, of High Falls, was issued a summons charging him with unlicensed operation of a vehicle. The summons is returnable before Justice of the Peace Frank C. Carle of Shokan.

Arrives in East Berlin

Berlin, July 26 (AP)—Georgi M. Pushkin, one of Moscow's most experienced trouble shooters, arrived in East Berlin by air today to take over as ambassador and Soviet high commissioner for East Germany. Pushkin succeeds Vladimir Semenov, longtime Russian expert on German matters, who is ticketed for another post as yet undefined. High Communists in the East German regime and the satellite embassies accredited to the Soviet zone greeted Pushkin at the Schoenfeld Airfield. He knows many of them personally from his previous tour here as the first ambassador to the East German state in 1949.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., July 22—The remarkable fecundity of America's farm lands will be apically demonstrated again this year, if weather and other conditions continue favorable. My survey of the overall picture indicates that the total return of all crops will be only moderately under the world record established in 1948.

For only the second time in 15 years, 1954 wheat production may fail to exceed 1,000,000,000 bushels. Although the winter crop—now about harvested—is as done well, with an indicated crop of around 759,000,000 bushels, black stem rust has hit the spring crop in the Dakotas and Minnesota, cutting yields down to that territory. However, I forecast adequate total supplies.

predict also that sizable mounts will enter storage under government loans. This could result in temporary higher prices later on.

Prospects for most of the other grains are quite promising.

be in large supply. Potatoes, however, should be in good balance with requirements, barring further damage to the Maine crop. Baked bean lovers can look forward to full pots. Rice pudding devotees also have nothing to worry about, since a record outturn of this grain is indicated. Production of sugar beets this year is likely to be far above the ten-year average. This will further complicate the problem of a world over-supply of sugar, but U. S. prices may be well controlled by the Federal Import Quota Program.

Supports and Farm Income

The government's price support program will have to be revamped. Under the present system, farm surpluses have mounted to fantastic levels at the taxpayers' expense. While it will require a high degree of political courage to do the right thing, I believe that we are on the way. Farm price supports are to continue, they certainly should be directly geared to the size of the crops produced. This means a flexible system, which is the only thing that makes sense.

As far as farm income is concerned, I believe that the 1955 outlook is favorable. Although there may be a slight decline as compared with 1954, the farmer's net income will still be substantial, and a strong bulwark to the national economy. Farming is an essential industry. Its people are industrious, sensible, and highly religious. I do not believe they ask for or need any special privileges, but they are entitled to a just share of the nation's economic prosperity.

ABA Will Receive Proposal to Teach Communist Ideas

Chicago, July 26 (AP)—A proposal that the theory and practice of communism be taught "in appropriate form" in all U. S. schools in conjunction with the teaching of American government will be submitted next month to the American Bar Assn.

The proposal, made yesterday by the ABA's committee on American citizenship, will come before the association's house of delegates during its annual convention Aug. 16-20 in Chicago.

The reports of the committee, headed by U. S. Judge Walter M. Bastian of Washington, D. C., states: "The dangers of communism could be readily understood if properly taught and it would be of great value to the youth of our country if they could be adequately shown the differences between the theory and practices of communism and the theory and practices of the government of the United States under our constitution."

that brass and those correspondents.

That night Heywood Brown wrote: "They will never call him Papa Pershing," referring to the legend, that the polius had called old Joffre "Papa Joffre." Fred Palmer, the chief censor, almost swooned. I am not sure now whether he let it go. If not, Brown used it later, when he was out from under, because it is treasured as one of his great expressions.

Was that a case of mass punishment when the whole command of the Wacs at Fort Des Moines, their original base, had to stand in ranks on a bitter winter morning, waiting for Eleanor Roosevelt to "inspect" them? It certainly was cruel. Some of them had spunk, though, for my souvenirs include a clipping sent along by one of the Wacs, containing an impromptu doggerel which they started singing to the tune of "The Old Gray Mare." The closing line was "Waiting for Eleanor," who had absolutely no right to inspect them and was just chucking her weight as usual.

More Than 1,000 Die

New Delhi, India, July 26 (AP)—Reports from the India-Tibet border say more than 1,000 persons died in the floods which swept the Tibetan trade center of Gyantse last week. One report from Kalimpong, the north Indian trade center linked to Gyantse by a Himalayan road, said the death toll may reach 1,800 in the south Tibetan town of 25,000 inhabitants. Information received here indicated the swollen Namchong river which flooded Gyantse now is subsiding.

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

Don't let this interrupt your sun-bathing or iced-tea-drinking, but DuMont has announced a schedule of 57 Sunday pro football games which will be televised beginning in September. And, if September comes, can brrrr be far behind?

Karen Chandler, one of the most beautiful singers around today, broke in her brand-new nightclub act at the Stagecoach Inn, across the Hudson River from New York. She cuts a charming figure on the floor, and has good material to work with. One of the high-spots is a medley of "should-have-beens"—records she made for Coral that should-have-been hits but weren't.

That's the American way—even the failures get a second chance.

At ringside tables, before Karen Chandler went on, an assortment of record industry brass sat waiting for her appearance. And—how you how these people can get from too much nightclubbing—while they waited they were playing the old word game, "Ghost."

This being mid-summer, let's talk about beautiful women. Not that you can't discuss beautiful women in mid-winter, but this is mid-summer. The subject for this particular mid-summer discussion of beautiful women is a thought dropped by Oleg Cassini, a dress designer, NBC-TV performer and beautiful woman fan.

"There's a new type of woman developing," Cassini said. "Pin-ups are on the way out. This new type of beauty gives more nourishment to the mind and the soul."

And, for all your undernourished minds and souls, I asked Cassini which were the ten most beautiful women he'd ever met in his various careers. And this is his list, arranged in no particular order whatsoever.

1. Greta Garbo—"she would have been beautiful in any age of history."
2. Gene Tierney (Cassini's ex-wife, incidentally)—"she is honestly a very great beauty."
3. Anne, Duchess of Rutland—"typically English; a little severe and collected but so perfect in feature."
4. Grace Kelly—"represents the new appeal; a combination of the All-American type with aristocratic blending."
5. Mrs. Bertram Taylor—"New York's most beautiful woman; a mixture of Grecian purity with a little bit of Irish."
6. Aischa, Maharane of Jaipur—"the most beautiful Oriental woman."
7. Mrs. Alfred Vanderbilt—"so right in every detail—proportion, size, coloring, eyes."
8. Mrs. Rhinelande Stewart—"a classic beauty; the eternal feminine look."
9. Mrs. Harrison Williams—"the most interesting, mysterious face."
10. Ann Gunning (an English model)—"the most exotic face."

That sounds like a good group to have over next Saturday night. One final word from Cassini on beauty: "There are more and more beautiful women these days because of sports, sunshine and better hygiene and nutrition. This is the best period of history for beauty, except possibly the Greek age—and I wasn't there then."

He looked a little disappointed that he wasn't.

Walter O'Keefe is back in New York, pinch-summing for Herb Shriner on CBS-TV's "Two for the Money." O'Keefe and New York are old friends, dating back to the Texas Guinan days.

"It's a little different working on 'Two for the Money,' O'Keefe says. "In those old days, people threw money at me. Now I throw money at people."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

THE NEXT TIME I SEE PARIS

When I get to Paris next month, there are two people I am determined to look up. They both live in St. Denis, the workingmen's district north of the city, and they are both priests.

One of these priests, the Abbe Pierre, received considerable attention in the American press a few months ago, and I understand that in France they talked about him almost as much as they did about Indochina.

Why all this talk? Well, Paris in the spring may be a verdant green version of Paradise, but in the winter it's something else again—a bleak, shivery city whose lower-depth neighborhoods are overrun with destitute families.

Last winter, the Council of the Republic met in its centrally heated chamber and refused to pass an emergency housing bill for these half-frozen people. A few days later, a three-month-old baby died of exposure in an abandoned truck, and the following week 17 people froze to death in the streets.

Appalled by this, the Abbe Pierre started a one-man campaign for the homeless. Within a week, he somehow managed to collect 20,000 blankets and $250,000 in cash. With part of the money, he bought a large plot of Paris wasteland and, assisted by a set of inspired ragpickers whom he dubbed "The Companions," he set up the "Notre Dame of the Homeless"—123 three-room dwellings at a cost of $425 per unit.

Before long, this impromptu town was sheltering and feeding 2,500 people a day. This coming winter, the "Apostle of the Homeless" hopes to have at least 50 such "emergency cities" ready, no matter what the politicians do or do not do.

Clearly, the Abbe Pierre is one of the sights of Paris I don't want to miss.

The second priest I plan to look up, Pere Raymond, has won the affection of his St. Denis parishioners by befriending wayward kids. Every morning, when juvenile court is in session in the district, he shows up and pleads with the judges to go easy on the young offenders. More often than not, the judges listen to him and release the youngsters in the priest's custody rather than send them to jail.

It seems that one day last April, Pere Raymond was returning from court where he had appeared on behalf of a boy named Jules who had gotten himself in serious trouble. A storekeeper had identified the lad as the one who had clubbed him over the head with a lead pipe and stolen his watch and money.

Down the street from his church, the priest passed the stand of Boji, the neighborhood shoeshine boy.

"Shine, Father?" said the boy.

"Like always, it is free."

Pere Raymond climbed up on the chair and Boji went to work.

"How did it go with Jules in court?" the bootblack asked.

"Badly," said the priest. "The storekeeper definitely identified him as the thief who beat and robbed him. The magistrate offered to release him in my custody, but I couldn't accept. Jules has been in trouble before, and to beat an old man almost to death is a serious crime."

"Jules didn't do it," said Boji.

"He's a little crazy sometimes, but he wouldn't rob or kill any one. He's my friend, and I know."

Next morning the priest stopped for his usual shine.

"Did you hear the news, Father?" said the bootblack.

"Last night the police caught the fellow who robbed the store. He had the watch and part of the money in his pocket."

"Did he confess?"

"Sure, he confessed, and the storekeeper identified him right away. The mistake happened because the thief looks a lot like Jules."

The priest was silent for a few moments. "Tell me, Boji, he finally said, "What made you so certain your friend was innocent?"

"It's like I said, Father," said the bootblack. "Jules is my friend, and I know."

The priest got out of the chair. "Give me the polish and the rag," he said, "and you sit up in the chair."

"But, Father—" the bootblack protested.

"Do as I say," said Pere Raymond. "I'm a priest, and faith is my business, but you seem to be better at it than I. Now, let's find out how well I can do your job."

Clearly, Pere Raymond is another of the sights of Paris I don't want to miss.

Stone Ridge Fair Young People Hat Contest Announced

A quaint feature of the Stone Ridge Library Fair beginning at 11 a. m. Saturday, August 7, will be an antiquated hat contest for young people.

The only requirements for eligibility in the contest is to wear an outmoded hat. If none can be found in the home attic, one can purchased or rented at the rummage table at the fair for a small sum.

The competition will be run like a beauty contest with prizes awarded to the quaintest, the oldest and the funniest hats in two age classifications—those under nine and those over nine. Contest for the younger group will be held at 3:30 p. m. and for the older group at 4 p. m. Boy Scouts and 4-H Club leaders will be in charge of the contest.

Austin Dunham's book stall will offer an unusual opportunity for anyone interested in Olde Ulster.

Miss Katherine Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge, one of the library's most faithful workers, has collected many copies of Olde Ulster. She lacks only the copies for February and June of 1909 and January and April of 1911 for the complete set. Extra copies will be on sale. Extra copies are also being offered in exchange for one of the four missing copies. Anyone interested in the offer who will not be able to attend the fair may contact the fair officials.

A House Tour is also planned in conjunction with the fair. Details will be announced soon.

With a recess shortly before midnight breaking an almost continuous Senate session just short of 86 hours, Majority Leader William Knowland (R-Calif.), right, congratulated Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas for the lead latter holds in his primary race for renomination. The Senate, locked in a dispute over the controversial atomic energy bill, is due to go back into session (July 26). Johnson tried a last minutes move to limit debate but failed. ### NEPHEW'S WEDDING

An aunt writes: "I have been asked by my nephew to take the place of his mother (my sister, now deceased) at his wedding. Never having acted in this capacity I am completely nonplussed as to my duties. Most of the guests will be strangers to me. Will you please tell me what is expected?"

Further than standing in the receiving line at the reception, there is no more expected of the groom's family than of any other guests. You will probably stand next to the bride's mother and she will introduce those who are strangers to you, and you shake hands with them and make the usual answers to what they each say to you. If she doesn't ask you to receive with her, then you stand a short distance away and greet all the guests who speak to you.

Is Leaving Food Rude?

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend and I have been having an argument as to the proper thing to do when dining in someone's house. He claims that by leaving a small portion of meat on your plate means that you have had enough to eat. To do otherwise, he claims, gives the impression that you are still hungry, and would be very rude to your hostess. We would appreciate your opinion on this matter.

Answer: On the contrary, to eat every morsel on your plate is the greatest compliment you can pay your hostess. To leave food is evidence that you didn't like what she served.

Anniversary Gifts

Dear Mrs. Post: Does one have to buy an item that typifies a particular wedding anniversary? Don't you think it would make more sense to buy something you know for sure would be very acceptable, regardless of what year they are celebrating?

Answer: To your second question, "yes," very decidedly, if you know of something that they want and you can give it to them. Otherwise, of course, it would be more suitable to buy something that typified their anniversary.

Every letter should be written with care on the proper stationery. To improve your letters both in appearance and in wording, you will find Mrs. Post's booklet No. 502, "Letter Writing," helpful. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. ### Brooklyn Man Killed While Fishing on Span

New York, July 26 (AP)—A Brooklyn man died today and his son remained in critical condition as a result of being struck by a speeding automobile yesterday as the pair were fishing on North Channel Bridge.

The father, Barney Yacano, 57, died in Kings County Hospital. The son, Francis, 12, suffered skull and internal injuries.

The car, which police said was traveling at 80 miles per hour, mounted a curb on the bridge, located outside Rockaway, Queens.

The driver, identified as John Peter Bakos, 31, a Brooklyn life insurance salesman, suffered only a slight facial cut.

Bakos originally was charged with drunken driving.

A door swung open as the car hit the curb and a passenger, George Avam, 31, of 19 11th Rd., Broad Channel, Queens, suffered skull injuries when thrown to the roadway. His condition was listed as "poor" at Queens General Hospital.

Another fisherman, Emmanuel Campo, 18, of Brooklyn, complained of back injuries but refused medical treatment, police said.

Scranton, Pa., July 26 (AP)—Arriving by bus, automobile and train, the vanguard of an expected 150,000 pilgrims gathered today at the Passionist shrine of St. Ann to participate in special services marking the saint's feast day. The services—known as a triduum—were started 30 years ago when thousands of Lackawanna valley hard coal miners were out of work. This year's triduum will express the hope the Marian Year will bring increased employment to the hard-pressed anthracite region of eastern Pennsylvania and peace to the world. Services are to be held in Slovak, Polish, Lithuanian, Italian, German and English, as well as the traditional Latin of the Roman Catholic Church.

Fort Orange Eliminates Old Caps From Legion Tourney, 6-5

2 Unearned Runs In 7th Nullify Maines' Big Blow

Big Smash Comes With Two Outs in Seventh

Two unearned runs by Fort Orange nine of Albany knocked the Old Capital Motors Legion team of Kingston out of the District 3 Legion tournament Sunday at Hawkins Stadium, Albany.

The tainted tallies nullified a heroic grand slam homer by Bob Maines which had put Kingston ahead 5-4 in the top of the seventh.

The Albany tossers then rallied to score twice after a double play ball that would have terminated the game was booted by a local infielder. The final score was 6-5.

Yesterday's victory was the 13th in 14 games for the Albany squad which plays a regular American Legion schedule.

Bob Donnelly, the Fort Orange hurler, won his own game with a two-run single after the fatal bobble of the DP ball.

Jack Houghtaling permitted only five hits and struck out nine but trailed, 4-1, when the Old Caps made their move. Donnelly whiffed 10.

All With Two Outs

The Caps descended on Donnelly unexpectedly with two outs in the seventh. After Ed Hearst and Ronnie Ashdown went out, Jim Jackson beat out a scratch single, Joey Hoffman got his second hit and Skip Brodhead looped one into left field. Maines picked this spot to grand slam on a shot to deep left center, the ball rolling to the fence in the spacious Eastern League park.

Hoffman and Donnelly, the opposing hurler, were the only players with two hits. In addition to the game winning single, Donnelly slammed a triple.

Toweel Underdog In US Ring Debut Against Costa

New York, July 26 (AP)—Vic Toweel, former world bantam champion, makes his American debut tonight as a lightweight against Carmelo Costa, Brooklyn featherweight, who recently upset Mexico's Baby Ortiz.

Toweel, 26, had trouble making the 118-pound bantam limit and was knocked out twice by Jimmy Carruthers, who since has retired. The South African hopes to shoot for the lightweight title in his new campaign. He must weigh 130, give or take a pound, for Costa.

Costa, a Brooklyn youngster, will be making his second 10-round fight. He is unbeaten in 24 fights with 21 victories and three draws.

The bout will be beamed from Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway at 10 p. m. (EDT), over ABC-TV.

Paulie Andrews of Buffalo, a fast rising light heavyweight contender, boxes Yvon Durelle of Baie St. Anne, New Brunswick, tonight at New York's St. Nicholas over Dumont-TV.

Andrews drove Danny Nardico into retirement and won over Chubby Wright at Miami Beach in his most recent outings. He is managed by Marshall Miles, who used to handle Joe Louis.

Don Cockell, the British heavyweight who is a potential title opponent for champion Rocky Marciano, meets Harry Matthews for the third time Friday at Seattle. Cockell beat Jack Hurley's "athlete" at Seattle last August and again in London, June 1.

If Cockell wins, he plans to stay in America for at least one more bout.

Madison Square Garden reopens for a Wednesday show (CBS-TV) with Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., the fellow who turned down a reported bribe offer before his recent bout with Joey Giardello, facing George Johnson of Trenton, N. J.

Kantrowitz Upsets Holmes in County Singles

KHS Ace Rallies After Dropping First Set, 7-9

Hot Forehand Wins Clinchers, 6-4, 6-4

Ulster county will have a new singles tennis champion this year.

Marty Kantrowitz, the brilliant young Kingston High School ace, made sure of that Sunday when he trounced Bill Holmes, the Palenville whiz, in a thrilling three-set match in the county championships at Forsyth Park.

The scores were 7-9, 6-4, 6-4. A good sized crowd watched what observers described as one of the finest tennis matches played here in several years.

Three-Time Winner Until his setback yesterday, Holmes had won the last three county tournaments and was a solid favorite to win this year's event. The tournament was not held in 1953.

Kantrowitz, the No. 1 singles player with the KHS varsity this spring, meets the winner of the Joe Scott-Irving Wheatcroft match in the finals. Regardless of who wins this one, Kantrowitz will be a firm choice to grab the title. The Scott-Wheatcroft match will be played Tuesday.

Kantrowitz forced Holmes to the net and then murdered him with passing shots. He had a red-hot forehand in the last two sets and his fancy cross court shots forced the old champion into frequent errors.

The doubles competition got under way with Ben Selbst and Bill Scheidt winning a first round match from Leroy Fein and N. Haven, 6-2, 6-2.

Yankees Salvage Series Finale; But Tribe Has Stengel Worried

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Cleveland Indians failed to sweep the Yankee series in New York but they have gained a new-found respect all over the American League.

Back home today following a successful road trip, the league leading Indians found the home town folks talking pennant for the first time this season. Earlier, when they arrived home in first place, the greeting would be something like this:

"Why get steamed up over the Indians? They never win the big ones. They wilt before the Yankees. Especially in New York. They'll blow it again down the stretch."

The Indians certainly didn't look like a team that had any folding tendencies in the three-game weekend series in New York. They arrived in New York with a thin half game edge over the Yankees and left with a game and a half margin.

The Yankees nipped the Indians 4-3 in 11 innings yesterday but even that narrow loss failed to mar the Tribe's satisfaction over whipping the defending champions on Friday and Saturday.

The Indians' fine showing prompted Casey Stengel, Yankees' grizzled manager, to mutter: "This has got to go down to the last weeks. Cleveland is not going to blow up. They got too many good players for that."

Giants Lose Again

The New York Giants' National League lead was whittled down to four games as the second place Brooklyn Dodgers defeated St. Louis 2-1 while the Milwaukee Braves were walloping Leo Durocher's men 7-5 for a sweep of the three-game series.

In other National League games, the Chicago Cubs downed Philadelphia twice 6-1 and 2-1. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati divided a doubleheader, the Pirates winning the opener 4-2 and the Redlegs taking the nightcap 3-2.

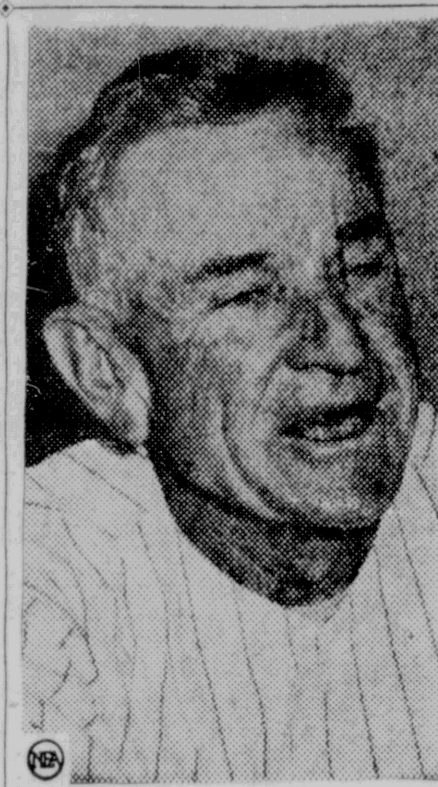

Chicago's third place White Sox climbed to within six games of the pace-setting Indians in the American League, sweeping a twin-bill from Boston 5-2 and 4-2. Jack Harshman, rookie Chicago lefthander, struck out 16 Red Sox batters—two short of Bob Feller's major league record in the opener.

Nats in 4th Place

Washington protected its fourth place hold, beating the Detroit Tigers 11-3 as Frank (Specs) Shea finally won his first game of the season. Philadelphia's Athletics buried the Baltimore Orioles deeper in the cellar with 9-4 and 6-4 victories. Cleveland enjoyed a 3-1 lead until the seventh, when Mike Garcia was chased as the Yankees tied the score on pinch hitter Eddie Robinson's double with the bases loaded.

Rookies Bob Grim of New York and Ray Narleski of Cleveland battled on even terms until the 11th when the Yankees filled the bases and Andy Carey banged a hit past a drawn-in infield to break up the game.

Clem Labine, making his second start of the season for

Casey Stengel

Brooklyn, outpitched Harvey Haddix, Cardinal ace. St. Louis scored a run and filled the bases in the ninth, but Jim Hughes replaced Labine and struck out Rip Repulski on three pitches to save his 17th games for the Dodgers.

Pafko Rips Giants

Andy Pafko drove in three runs with his 11th homer and a bases-loaded single to spark the Braves to their third straight victory over the Giants.

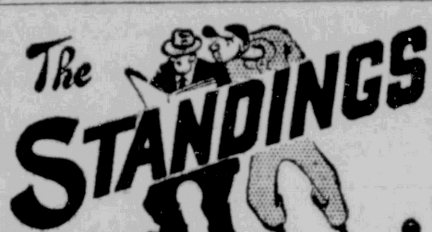

Bob Talbot's ninth inning single followed Dee Fondy's run-producing double in a two-run rally that gave the Cubs a 2-1, second game victory over the Phillies and their 11th victory in the past 15 games.

The White Sox followed up Harshman's sensational strikeout performance by defeating an old nemesis—Ellis Kinder—in the second game with a two-run seventh inning rally that broke a 2-2 tie. Kinder had whipped the White Sox in 20 out of 26 decisions.

Mobile—Willie Pep, 129, Hartford, Conn., outpitched Mike Tourcotte, 126½, New Orleans, 10.

Hollywood, Calif.—Andy Escobar, 136, Redondo Beach, Calif., stopped Buddy Eavatt, 133½, Los Angeles, 8.

The St. Louis Cardinals have played eight rookies this season. Six are still with the club.

Matt Jones Ties SO Mark With 17 in Esopus Loop

Esopus Legion League

Won Lost Pct. G.B.

Dodgers	4	2	.667	2
Giants	2	4	.333	3
Yankees	0	5	.000	4

Imagine how young Matty Jones of the Dodgers feels today!

In Sunday's Esopus Legion League game with the league-leading Indians, he tied Richie Terpening's all-time strikeout record of 17 and still dropped the decision 8 to 3.

And the Indians further aggravated the Dodger setback by stealing home twice.

The Indians also won Saturday's game by an 11-1 margin over the Giants, with Bernie Brown yielding only one hit and striking out 12. A first inning scratch double by Ed Nemphart was the only safety off Brown.

Other Things Happened

The Indian-Dodger had other exciting factors besides Jones' terrific strikeout pitching. Jones stole home in the third inning and Babe Whitaker of the Indians matched the trick in the sixth frame. John Carter, the Indian hurler, hit three batters. Ray Gilliard split his finger while batting in the fourth and Ed Mordock ended the game with an unassisted double play.

Jones embellished his strikeout with a double and triple on offense. Rich Terpening slammed a single and double. Ray Gilliard had a single and double to his credit when forced to leave the game.

In the second game the Indians, now 6-1 in the league standings, picked up nine safe-ties off Mario Astorga and Nemphart, including triples by John Carter and Bob Robinson, who also hit singles. Ray Gilliard powered a double and single for the winners—Babe Whitaker and Bernie Brown also hit two baggers. The Tribe settled the issue as early as the first inning with six runs.

Once Inland Sea

Great Salt, Utah, and Sevier Lakes are remnants of an ancient Ice Age inland sea, which geologists call Lake Bonneville. This sea covered what now is western Utah, eastern Nevada and southern Idaho.

'Unripe Gold'

Indians of the Andes highlands scornfully called platinum "unripe gold" and threw it back into the streams to ripen in the days of the Spanish Conquistadores.

Brooklyn, 7-3, 700; Grissom, New York, 9-4, 692.

retary Dulles and read to a news conference by press officer Henry Suydam:

"As I announced on Saturday, July 24, the secretary of defense has ordered two United States aircraft carriers to proceed to the scene of the Chinese Communist assault upon the British commercial airliner which resulted in the death of three Americans and the wounding of three others.

"The mission as stated then of these ships and their planes was to conduct and protect further rescue and search operations in the vicinity of the tragedy.

"This government is now informed that two United States carrier-based planes of the rescue type, while conducting their missions of mercy and seeking possible survivors, were attacked over the high seas by two Chinese Communist fighter aircraft, apparently of the same type as shot down the Cathy Pacific commercial airliner.

"The United States planes returned the fire and the two Chinese Communist planes were shot down. There were no casualties on the United States side.

"The United States plans to protest most vigorously against this further evidence of Chinese Communist brutality and their belligerent interference with a humanitarian rescue operation

No Neglect Evidence Found in Boy's Death

Mineola, July 26 (AP)—Dist. Atty. Frank Gulotta of Nassau county said yesterday that investigation had uncovered no evidence of willful neglect in the death of 4-year-old Jerold Winston, whose mother had refused to send him to a hospital.

The boy, child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Winston, of Hempstead, died Friday as an assistant district attorney was at the house to insist that Jerold be
